

Judith Pepper

Guiding women age 40+ to ask the question, "Now, what about ME?"

Judith Pepper

is a life sage, author and public speaker who guides women over 40 to ask and explore the question "Now, What About ME?"

Judith is the author of The Age of Sage: Extraordinary Advice for Extraordinary Women, a selection of narratives, formulas and ideas on how mature women can reframe negative thoughts into positive beliefs, so they can build their momentum to live life as fully and wildly as they desire.

Judith is also an expert public speaker on the subject of life transformation over 40. She's addressed audiences of hundreds of women all over the US, including the Aspen Institute, Texas Tech University, Western Colorado University, numerous women's health conferences and other regional organizations.

Judith specializes in helping others understand and master the "Four Stages of Transformation:"

1. Within one's SELF
2. In our RELATONSHIPS with others
3. In our work and CAREER
4. In our ability to PLAY, be creative and enjoy life.

Using her four-step reframing process attendees learn tools and techniques to reframe negative to positive thinking:

- NAMING: Identifying what you desire in each of these areas.
- CLAIMING: Getting specific about what you want to create.
- FRAMING: Creating and taking the actions to make it happen.
- FAMING: Fully celebrating and relishing the changes you have made.
